AN OVERWORKED SNAKE.

They tell some tall stories about the trly days of prohibition in Kansas. At idorado a wicked Missourian went into drug store and asked for a drink. "In sick," he said, "and need it," "But, my friend," said the druggist, for il have to bring a physician's premiotion."

"No other way?" asked the dejected

"No other way?" asked the dejected Missourian.
"No. No prescription, no whisky, and I'm sorry to say our physician is now in Topeka."
"And no possible way to get a drink?"
"Well, yes," said the druggist, "In case of a snake bite we can give whisky to save a man's life."
"Do you know where I can find a snake?" gasped the sufferer.
"They say Jim Smith caught one in the sorghum patch yesterday."
"I'll be back in a minute," said the man, rushing out of the door.
About two hours afterward he came hustling back, exclaiming, "Got, it! Snake bit me! Gimme the whisky!"
"What delayed you so long?" asked the druggist.

OCEAN GAMBLING.

OCEAN GAMBLING.

Is said that, for the first time in history of ocean travel, the police. New York city and the trans-Atlantic anishlp companies have united in a r on gamblers who ply their trade ocean liners. The wonder, of course, hat such a campaign of suppression not been long ago undertaken. It now the intention of the steamship upanies to post the pictures of amship, in the ticket offices and in the other place where gamblers might found. It is further proposed to use to sell tickets to men who are went to be gamblers, and to refuse transport gamblers who attempt to the one tickets which have been isdender in the machinery for all this will of interest. It is the plan of the poto have men with expert knowledge crooks to see every one who goes and ship.—From the Springfield Re-

SEA SERPENT'S TALE.

SEA SERPENT'S TABL.

This year, as usual, the sea serpent has made its appearance, Edward S. Dodgson, of Jesus College, Oxford, and the Rev. T. C. Davies, M. A., of Queen's College, Oxford, saw it when they were staying at Tintagel, Wales. It was moving at a distance of about 20 yards very rayidly along the caim surface of the sea toward Tintagel Head. In about a minute it had disappeared behind the cliff that bounds the cove on the west. It was, they say, at least twenty feet long, holding its large head, with apparently some kind of a crest or mane upon it, aloft.—Exchange.

Clarence Lyman, the former newspaperman now in the land business, became the father of another boy recently, and he is very proud of the new baby. He was around the newspaper offices telling all his friends of the event. "I suppose," he said, "that I ought to bring the clgars around for you fellows, but I've decided on another plan." "What is it?" somebody asked. "I'm going to 'set 'em up' to my wife instead of my friends. I told her that instead of buying clgars for my friends I'd 'set 'em up' to her." "Have you done it?" he was asked. Clarence looked surprised. "Of course not," he replied. "She doesn't smoke."—From the Denver Post.
